

Please leave the Indiana Telephone privacy law alone. The telephone that these telemarketers bug me on is something that I pay the bill for and I do so for MY convenience, not so I can be asked to buy windows when I am trying to spend time with my disabled child or doing my homework. Also, telemarketers have given themselves the bad name. I am tired of saying "No, thank you" and being called a foul name or hung up on. And you can't do anything about it because they all block their numbers, so you can not report them. Please, this is one of the best laws Indiana has ever made, don't shoot it down. Please!
